Berkeley Undergraduate Profile

UC Berkeley has developed this document to provide potential students and their parents with information about our Campus. Modeled on the current efforts of several national organizations, this data is presented in a similar format for ease in comparing institutions. These efforts are a response to the Federal call for universities to be more open and accountable, and also as an alternative data source to the various college rankings so hotly debated in today's media. Students and parents should have more control in making their own decisions about which aspects are important in selecting potential universities to complete their undergraduate education. This document is meant to provide basic information across a range of Campus issues, and be a gateway to the many Campus web sites that deal with these issues in greater detail.

Berkeley Undergraduate Profile

Student Research and Academic Excellence

The undergraduate experience at Berkeley includes abundant opportunity to interact with world-class faculty and graduate students involved in research in nearly any discipline. The advantage to students who are interested in pursuing graduate or professional school education is extraordinary. Consider the value of classroom experiences that include graduate student participation (as many upper-division courses do), or the numerous opportunities for undergraduates to actively take part in ground-breaking research.

Undergraduate Research Opportunities

Examples of UCB undergraduate research programs:

Haas Scholars Program: 20 seniors from any department on Campus engage in sustained research, field study or a creative project.

Berkeley Summer Bioengineering Program: 20-25 undergrads from any department work in the Bioengineering Lab at UCB or UCSF.

Townsend Center Research Apprenticeship: 12 students from the Humanities or Social Sciences work on faculty research projects.

College of Engineering: approximately 85 students with interest or background in engineering apprentice for Engineering faculty member.

Biology Scholars Program: promotes the success of students from economic, gender, ethnic and cultural groups historically underrepresented in the biological sciences.

UC Berkeley Washington Center: opportunities for students from any discipline to work in Berkeley or Washington D.C. on political campaigns and providing insight into national policy making.

Graduate Education

With more than 105 graduate programs on Campus, Berkeley provides a stimulating research environment with over 10,300 students pursuing graduate and first-professional degrees. Research facilities include hundreds of laboratories and research centers, 8 museums, and 7 field stations.

Libraries and Education Technology

More

There are 18 subject libraries and 11 affiliated libraries on Campus (the oldest collection on the West Coast and consistently ranked in the top 5 in the nation) housing more than 10 million volumes and 70,000 serial titles. Webcast and podcast courses are on the rise and are popular with students and the public. Currently more than 50 courses are offered via webcasting.

Research

Major Research Centers include:

Energy Biosciences Institute - with a mission to "harness the potential of bioenergy, to make discoveries and commercialize realities out of these, which could benefit the world", participants are setting forth in a colossal search for new breakthroughs that will lead to sustainable, clean fuel sources.

Center for Information Technology Research in the Interest of Society (CITRIS) - a multi-campus effort to create IT solutions for our most pressing social, environmental and health care problems.

California Institute for Quantitative Biomedical Research (QB3) - an effort to develop new solutions to the most urgent biomedical problems through multidisciplinary research, innovative educational programs, industrial and venture capital partnerships.

Townsend Center for the Humanities - offers advanced research and creative teaching initiatives by coordinating, disseminating, and enriching the existing wealth of intellectual resources at Berkeley.

Blum Center for Developing Economies - designs, adapts and disseminates scalable and sustainable technologies and systems to increase the well-being of poor people in developing countries.

Distinguished Faculty

Campus Safety More

The UC Berkeley Police Department provides high-quality professional crime prevention, protection, and law enforcement services to maintain and promote human safety and the security of property for the Berkeley campus and its associated locations. The Department facilitates the achievement of the academic, research and public service missions of the University through its safety and security programs, protection of individual rights, and reduction of fear of crime. This is accomplished through the direct provision of traditional law enforcement and emergency services and the design and delivery of pro-active educational, outreach and crime prevention programs for a broad and diverse campus.

Student Experiences and Perceptions

Students who are actively involved in their own learning and development are more likely to be successful in college. Colleges and universities offer students a wide variety of opportunities both inside and outside the classroom to become engaged with new ideas, people, and experiences. Institutions measure the effectiveness of these opportunities in a variety of ways to better understand what types of activities and programs students find the most helpful. Following are the selected results from the 2008 University of California Undergraduate Experience Survey (UCUES). The questions have been grouped together in categories that are known to contribute to student learning and development. The results reported below are based on the responses of seniors who participated in the survey.

Berkeley Undergraduate Profile

UC Berkeley is developing separate surveys for graduating seniors and alumni. The summary of responses to core questions from each of these surveys will be provided below.

In the future, this space will contain the results of graduating senior and alumni surveys, which are currently being developed.

The Berkeley campus holds to the fundamental principle that the evaluation of student achievement should be locally defined, discipline specific, and faculty driven. The Undergraduate Student Learning Initiative is a campuswide initiative to support departments in establishing educational goals and evaluation procedures for all undergraduate programs. As a result of this process, faculty and students will have a shared understanding of the purpose of the major and what graduating seniors are expected to know or to be able to do at the end of their course of study. This is an important effort, which will have long term benefits both for our students and for the quality of our undergraduate programs. A joint Academic Senate-administration faculty advisory committee provides shared oversight for the initiative.
